NATIONAL RACE

Battle Is Seen For New York's Powerful 92-Vote Bloc

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 17.—A battle for New York's powerful bloc of 92 votes towards the Republican presidential nomination is assured with the candidacy of Publisher Frank Gannett.

Several weeks after Manhattan's District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey entered the race, the upstate Republican leader, former chairman of the committee to uphold constitutional government, announced he would run at a civic testimonial dinner last night.

"My answer is yes," Gannett replied to several speakers who urged him to run. "It is a call to duty that no citizen can ignore."

The publisher's candidacy is backed by a bloc of upstate "grass roots" Republicans. An avowed opponent of the New Deal, he continued his attack in his address last night declaring:

"The only way to stop them (New Dealers) is to get rid of them."

Gannett announced through the mail today his resignation as the constitutional government committee chairman in favor of former Congressman Samuel B. Pettibone of Indiana, and as a member of the board of directors of The Associated Press.

In Washington, a prediction that the Florida delegation to the Democratic national convention would back President Roosevelt for a third term came from Senator Pepper (D-Fla.).

His statement, made soon after an announcement that Ohio delegates would be in the Roosevelt camp if their "favorite son," Senator Donahue, failed to develop strength, kept the capital talking about the draft-Roosevelt movement.

Pepper said he believed that Florida Democrats would elect 14 delegates who were friendly to the President and would support him or any man of his choice, although they would go to the convention without official instructions.

An appropriation of $334,670 for all departments—$28,861.18 higher than the grand total last year—was approved last night by city council in passing the appropriation ordinance for 1940.

The measure, which was holding up the current payroll pending passage, was approved as an emergency measure upon a motion by Councilmen A. P. Morris and Arch H. Wentz.

Increases in the 1940 appropriation, it was explained by City Auditor Karl Webster, are due principally to the addition of two extra firemen, a boost in the sewer construction fund to take care of anticipated improvements and extra money for park purposes.

The fire department appropriation totaled $25,325, compared with $23,918 a year ago. The sewer construction fund is $15,000, which is $2,500 higher than the 1939 fund.

Allotment of additional money for the sewer fund was made to allow for the proposed construction of new storm water sewers and larger outlets in the lower end of the city.

A total of $2,500 was set up for Centennial and the West End parks. The park commission had asked for $4,000. The park appropriation last year was only $1,500. The bond retirement figure for the current year totals $109,892.02, which is higher than the corresponding figure in 1939, but takes in a cash balance carried over at the start of the present year.

A recapitulation of the new appropriation measure follows:
For general fund, $20,208.90; safety fund, $43,683; health fund, $5,340; service fund, $51,975; waterworks, $57,040; gasoline tax street repair fund, $17,000; general bond retirement, $109,892.02; special assessment bond retirement, $29,331.92.General Fund Breakdown

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 17.—Stinging cold down to 30 degrees below zero, calmly described by the weather bureau as "normal winter conditions," kept Minnesota residents huddling today. Continued severe cold was forecast.

It was 30 below at Warroad, Minn., on the Canadian boundary. An official -16 made it the season's coldest day in Minneapolis.

No one was injured in a collision on Route 62, one mile west of Westville, at 9:20 p. m. Tuesday, state highway patrolmen said.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Jerd Oesch, 28, of R. D. 2, Beloit, struck the rear of a truck operated by Ross Mason, 20, of R. D. 5, Warren. The rear lights on Mason's truck were reported out.

Sign New Protection
Agreement

The contract between the City of Salem and Perry township, whereby township residents are given fire protection, was approved for another two-year period by city council Tuesday night.

Approval followed the introduction of a motion by Councilman Charles Rheutan and C. F. Zimmerman that the contract be renewed at the customary charge to the township of $500. Perry township rural residents were given assurance of fire protection for the first time eight years ago when the initial contract was drawn up.

Council last night reported on a damage claim of $99 filed by George Brantingham, whose car was involved in a collision with a fire enroute to the scene of a fire several weeks ago at the corner of E. Pershing st. and Penn ave.

Not Negligible, Solicitor Rules
Solicitor Henry Reese explained that the firemen, at the time, were in the act of performing their duty and that, according to provisions of the state general code, the city was not negligent in the case.

The solicitor also reported that common pleas court at Lisbon had overruled a motion for a new trial asked by Mrs. Catherine Vignovich who was awarded a small judgment after suing the city for $25,000 as the result of an alleged sewer condition for which the city was blamed.

SHERIFF DUTY
SET TO QUALIFY

Expects to Formally Take Office Tonight; Gosney Seeks Job As Investigator

LISBON, Jan. 17.—Chief Deputy Sheriff M. K. Duty of Wellsville is expected to qualify tonight as sheriff of Columbiana county after receiving approval of his $10,000 bond.

Duty was named sheriff by county commissioners after Sheriff Harry L. Gosney resigned yesterday.

Sheriff-elect Duty said today he would appoint another deputy because "I feel an extra man is needed in the field." Duty was besieged last night by telephone calls from applicants.

This morning former Sheriff Gosney appeared in Prosecutor Karl T. Stouffer's office to seek a job from Stouffer as a special investigator.

The prosecutor, who has employed special investigators at various times, explained that there was little activity at the present time and that he would not need the assistance of an investigator.

Council approved the purchase of a windshield for the city fire truck upon the recommendation of Fire Chief Francis Morrissey.

Quads Born to Alabama Sharecropper's Wife Get $1,000

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 17.—Faith, Hope, Charity and their unnamed baby brother have a godfather. M. C. McGehee, Jr., a bachelor, president of the Texas Gulf Producing company, said he wired the quadruplets $1,000.

The quadruplets were born in a log cabin Sunday night to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Short. McGehee said he talked with Dr. H. J. Sankey on the phone and "told him to use the money anyway he thought best in providing for the babies' health."

The quadruplets are pictured in the two-room farm cabin 18 miles from Jasper, Ala., where they were born. They later were transferred to Walker County hospital in Jasper. Mrs. Short is the wife of a sharecropper and coal miner. The first three babies were girls and were named Faith, Hope and Charity. A boy arrived one hour and twenty minutes after the first delivery.

COLUMBIANA, Jan. 17.—A 1940 budget of $103,024.48, approximately the same as last year's, was approved by Columbiana council at its meeting last night.

The budget includes an appropriation of about $12,000 for maintenance and operation of Firestone park and an appropriation for improvements at Columbiana cemetery.

Landscaping and construction of new drives are among the improvements planned for the cemetery.

Survey North-end Addition
It was reported that engineers are now surveying the recently annexed north-end addition to the city in preparation for putting in sewer and water lines and laying out streets. The addition extends the city limits to the county line.

Upon recommendation of the board of public affairs, council required Charles C. Hommer of Canton as city engineer at a salary of $600 a year.

The resignations of Dick Fitzpatrick and Dan J. Miller from the park board were read by Clerk R. S. Orr and accepted by council. Both men have served on the board since it was founded six years ago. Miller was secretary of the body at the time of his resignation.

Vacancies Filled
Mayor Arthur Myers appointed Clyde Hoover and Dr. H. F. Campbell to fill the vacancies. In addition to the two new members, the board includes Leo Sponseller, D. H. Hepburn and Dr. H. L. Nelson.

Council approved re-appointment of Walter Thomas as street commissioner and Lester Harold as property man of the fire department.

DEMOCRATS TO BACK NEW DEALOhio Organization First
To Pledge Third-Term
Support(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Jan. 17.—Third term backing for President Roosevelt came today from a politically pivotal Ohio's Democrats—the first state organization to make such a move.

Delegates lined up for the Democratic presidential convention will be required to support Mr. Roosevelt for renomination and be "in accord" with the New Deal, State Chairman Arthur L. Limbach announced here yesterday.

Washington Interested
This surprisingly unequivocal stand created intense interest in Washington and other political circles.

While pro-New Deal state organization leaders previously expressed hope the President would seek another term, there had been no indication the delegation would be instructed specifically how to cast Ohio's 52 important votes.

Delegates nominally will be pledged to U. S. Vice Donahue as a "favorite son"—primarily to meet state election law requirements—but Limbach said that should the first ballot trend so strongly for Mr. Roosevelt Ohio would cast its vote as a unit for him.

Limbach anticipates, however, that President Roosevelt will decline renomination and a successor will outline a pattern for a successor that will fit only Associate Justice William O. Douglas, youngest Yesterday police towed in a car which had been parked for a week near the corner of E. State st. and Lincoln ave. The machine bore an Akron license plate number, B-369-U.

CONCERT TO MARK
NIGHT'S PROGRAMVaried Features Scheduled
For Sessions
On Thursday

A crowd of at least 400 persons jammed the Memorial building auditorium this morning for the opening of the 12th annual Salem Farmers' Institute, giving evidence of another possible record attendance.

A year ago approximately the same number of persons attended the opening session, and together with attendance at the ensuing sessions, gave the institute one of its best years. It ranked third in the state.

Today's crowd came despite winter's cold and snow. Mrs. Elizabeth Pow was on the job as institute secretary, the post which she has held since the organization was established 12 years ago. Price Cope, also a prominent worker in the institute since its inception, was serving his sixth year as program chairman.

Perry Grange In Charge

The opening program today was in charge of Perry grange, whose lecturer, Raymond Fawcett, presided. The address of welcome was given by T. E. Miller, president of the Salem Business Bureau, while J. Glenn Bates, institute president, gave the response.

Charles W. Cookston of Troy, state institute speaker, delivered an address entitled, "Whither Bound." The subject of the talk by Mrs. D. B. Phillips, the other state speaker, was "Something for Nothing."

Mr. Neco grange, with Lecturer Anna Aiken presiding, had charge of the day's second program as the institute session reconvened this afternoon.

A feature of tonight's program, which will be in charge of Salem grange, will be a half-hour concert by the Salem High school band, directed by C. M. Braulting.

The institute will elect new officers tomorrow morning. Present leaders are: President, J. Glenn Bates; vice president, F. L. Vincent; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth Pow.

A host of speakers will be heard as the institute continues Thursday.

Service Workers
Will Punch Clock

Service Director Charles T. Kennedy disclosed today that he had installed a time clock at the city garage in order that an accurate account of service department workers' hours could be maintained and thereby eliminate any possible differences between the workers and the timekeeper.

Kennedy also said the use of the time clock would put an end to "unintentional leaks" in reporting on the number of hours worked each day. He admitted there had been instances where some men were credited with more hours than they actually worked.

The service director explained he felt the purchase of a time clock was a good investment. Department employees, he said, approve of the fact that they can be their own timekeeper and not rely on someone else to mark the hours worked in a time book.

Arraignment Day

NO MAGIC IN REORGANIZATION

Stock catchword of a long succession of chief executives wanting to increase government efficiency has been reorganization. But there's no magic in reorganization.

It may or may not increase efficiency. It may or may not decrease costs and payroll. As to the latter, Budget Director Smith recently pointed out that federal agencies reorganized by the Roosevelt administration last summer dropped 5,006 employees off the payroll in three months.

But don't cheer. From July 31 to Nov. 1, also according to the budget director, the total civilian personnel of government jumped from 927,887 to 987,357—a net increase of 9,470. For every jobholder pried loose, 1.89 jobholders grabbed on.

PARDONABLE CONFUSION

TVA's request to congress, transmitted via President Roosevelt, for authority to develop the Tennessee valley as a national playground adds one more political selling point to this costly project.

Mr. Roosevelt, who chides Americans for thinking electric power is the main idea behind government spending in the Tennessee valley, must admit their confusion is pardonable.

Various TVA has been sold as a national defense project, a flood control project, a public power project, a social uplift project and now by golly it's going to be an amusement project too. It all depends on the way you look at the thing. There even are some who insist it's a project in utter futility.

JAPAN'S IN THE NAVY NOW

Japanese politics, never transparent, have clouded up more than usual with appointment of an admiral, Mitsumasa Yonai to head the new cabinet.

The army has been running Japan. Some navy men charge it has been running the country to pieces, meaning the military adventure in China. The navy, as a whole, is more conservative than the army in Japan.

Navy men aren't especially interested in China. They operate in a larger sphere—the Pacific ocean and its numerous seas on the Asia coast. They do their thinking on an international scale like all navy men.

Their job is to keep any other power from interfering with the army while it stamps "Made in Japan" on everything within the Japanese "sphere of destiny." They take it seriously.

Part of the navy job, therefore, is to keep a finger on the United States, which is preparing to abrogate an important treaty of friendship and business with Japan. The United States, Japan has been told, does not approve of what the army has done and is doing in China. Thus, the army's problem becomes the navy's responsibility.

Perhaps that explains why the next premier, instead of being a general, is going to be an admiral. While the new premier lasts, it's probable the army will have to play second fiddle. How long he will last is a wide open question in a country that maintains open session on politicians.

TOO MUCH VICE VERSA

Most important part of the revolutionary plot discovered by the bureau of investigation is the fact it didn't come off.

Only slightly less important is the comment of Mayor LaGuardia, in whose city the 17 ringleaders were arrested: "I don't think the United States government is in much danger from 17 guys like these."

The mayor's opinion is typical of the way his countrymen feel about it. Seventeen or 17 hundred or 17 thousand "guys" wouldn't get to first base with a revolutionary movement in the United States.

Unlike the situation in Germany in 1923 when a ludicrous firebrand named Hitler tried to soar to power with a pistol in a Munich beer hall and soared to martyrdom as a political prisoner, instead, there is no common rallying point for a revolutionary surge in the United States. The people are peeved about a lot of things, not just a few big grievances.

Old dealers and new ones are peeved at each other. Republicans don't like Democrats and vice versa. A. F. L. men say they're disgusted with C. I. O. men and vice versa, the south has a big grudge against the north and vice versa—in short there's too much vice versa. Any revolutionary who yelps, "Follow me!" has an argument on his hands right away. A lot of other guys—maybe 17 others—are going to yelp right back, "Nope. You follow me." From the standpoint of revolution it's pretty hopeless.

NERVES

Reports of troop concentrations in northwestern Germany threatening the Netherlands and Belgium may mean that Hitler has decided to try to outflank the Maginot line—a strong, military possibility. But it may mean something else. There are two sides in the war.

The other possibility is that the allies have decided to try to outflank Germany's Westfall. That would be a momentous decision; it would entail a reversal of military policy; it would change the war of attrition to a war of moving forces.

Each side has been counting heavily on the cumulative effect of delay. With the British and French, this has been a clear policy—to keep Germany mobilized while cutting off its foreign trade in the hope of ultimate revolution inside the country.

It has been a highly specialized war of nerves. But there has been an unexpected result, hinted at between the lines of information from abroad. The nerves of the British and French have been affected. Prime Minister Chamberlain's recent speech warning of imminent danger admittedly was for home consumption.

Perhaps it has become necessary to give the home consumers some action. Germany, perhaps for propaganda effect, suspects the Netherlands and Belgium are allowing themselves to be excited by French and British "excitement." At the same time it must be remembered that in the World War Germany violated Belgium's neutrality, on the pretense that France was preparing to use Belgium as an attack base.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, January 18

VERY productive and enterprising conditions are presaged for this day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. There may be much stress and excitement, probably in the effort to put over new and original programs. Innovation, radical change in methods and technique prove factors in promoting progressive propositions in which capital or influence from high places may be easily obtained on the basis of merit and practicality. The mind will be attuned to surprisingly novel and constructive levels in fresh fields.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a very progressive and productive year, with much energy and talent applied to putting over major programs. Originality, novelty and improved techniques will attract proper support and capital for promotion. The mind will be keyed to innovation and creative ability, receiving due recognition and profit. Personal affiliations also give happiness and gratification.

A child born on this day may have much creative ability and originality, with a definite trend toward the new, untried and novel or modern, in art, science, philosophy, invention or romance.

This may be the year when the few remaining wrinkles in the hide of the G. O. P. elephant will disappear. As a beauty treatment, the election of 1938 was a success.

The person who doesn't try to be honest just because he has to live with himself is on shaky ground so far as integrity is concerned.

How Colds In Head React To High Altitude Flying

Does high altitude flying have any effect on head colds?

It is a common belief that high altitude flying will make a head cold worse and intensify the symptoms. The mucous membrane in the nose is already congested when a person has a head cold, and it is true that altitude increases the congestion. The sensation of fullness in the ear and deafness due to the lack of equalization of pressure are much worse when there is a head cold which may stop up the lower end of the Eustachian tube and interfere with the escape of air within the middle ear.

Even minute hemorrhages have been found on the surface of the ear drum as a result of flying in high altitudes when the nose is affected.

It has been observed that the baneful effects of high altitude flying may be almost completely neutralized, and full protection afforded if the human subject is given the advantage of inhalations of helium and oxygen. Helium is a very light gas and has been found beneficial mixed with oxygen in asthma because it can be breathed into the lungs with greater ease than air. Airplane companies are now installing tanks of oxygen and helium in their ships to meet this emergency.

Those who are sensitive to dust and pollen grains are of course as well known immediately relieved on attaining high altitudes although studies made by research workers have shown that pollen grains do that at surprisingly great heights.

Another condition which is relieved by attaining a high altitude is a certain type of vacuum head ache.

In recognition of the harmful effects of inadequate ventilation and chilling of the body surfaces, conditions which seem to cause head colds, the flight-stewards aboard airplanes are carefully trained to maintain adequate ventilation and to pay particular attention to passengers who are suffering from head colds.

White Sugar vs Brown Sugar

Is white sugar healthier than brown sugar?

If you believe the lay propagandists, you will have an array of ideas which will either prove that white sugar is harmful or that brown sugar is the only healthy sugar or that brown sugar is the only healthy sugar.

White sugar did not appear upon our tables before the 1890's, when the process of refining sugar was developed. It is said by manufacturers that white sugar is purer than brown sugar. It is said by the advocates of brown sugar that it is natural and, therefore, retains the natural virtues of any food of that kind. Neither statement has any meaning. Both white sugar and brown sugar are of about the same chemical character, the only difference being that brown sugar has certain natural coloring matters that neither help nor hinder its usefulness.

Another piece of propaganda was that brown sugar contained germs that were refined out by the process by which white sugar is obtained.

People, in general, like white sugar better. Before the refining process the people in the United States used about 30 pounds of brown sugar per person per annum.

Now the average is more than 150 pounds.

In spite of the fact that it is pleasant, it is not at all harmful. EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. "LOVE'S INTERLUDE" by -MAY-CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XXXII

It is an old truism that calamities come fast on top of each other. Out of the nine students analyzed that that fateful fourth day of the class, seven wanted their money back, and the remaining two were injured or fearful.

Cora's rebuke ringing in her ears, Moira went to her solitary apartment, sadder and wiser.

She admitted her mistake. Women couldn't "take" criticism.

When the doorbell rang, and Evelyn Groves came up, she was glad. But the sight of Joe Deverney, behind her friend, annoyed her.

Presently there was a "phone call" from Evelyn's mother, Evelyn said, casually, that she must run home, for a moment. She'd be right back.

He remained. He wanted to tip Moira off about the handling of her class in "charm." Really it was a gold-mine. But there must be an end to the voting papers. They'd think up a new stunt.

Moira was fatigued. Let Joe talk. What did she care?

The doorbell rang again. Evelyn, of course.

But it wasn't Evelyn. It was the last person in the world who should appear.

Cora Deverney had come to tell her that just at the closing of the beauty parlor, a suit for $150,000 damages had been served by Mrs. Rules' lawyers.

For "permanent disfigurement" by Moira!

"And you're going to pay for this, my girl! Don't think I don't know about your on-goings with Kimberly Delatour—his wife told me! It's my husband, now! He sneaks here to see you. I've just heard about that weekend at the inn up the Hudson! You thought you'd get away with it, but you didn't! I'll sue you for alienation of affection, you ungrateful girl! And don't you ever dare show your nose inside of Deverney's shop, or I'll have you arrested!"

Fired!

Ignominiously discharged! Not only labelled an untrustworthy operator, but a hunk of other women's husbands!

And not a word of truth in either accusation!

"This comes," said Moira to herself after her front door had slammed behind the retreating Deverney's, "of being the kind of a fool who puts other people's interests ahead of her own!"

The rewards of altruism! Her mind turned resentfully to Evelyn Groves.

This friend of hers, through selfish folly and light-headedness and lack of common sense, had brought calamity on Moira.

Against the rule of the beauty parlor and in Cora's absence, Evelyn had struck the match for her cigarette that had caused the explosion and the accident to Mrs. Rules.

Evelyn had cucked her share of the blame. Hidden behind Moira.

"But now that I'll have to take the stand in a court of law, and tell my side of the case, I shan't protect her. I'll tell the whole truth."

Yet what good could it do anybody, now?

For added to the law suit, in Cora Deverney's mind, was the rumor of the weekend at the country inn where Moira had gone, recklessly, fired with the desire to protect Evelyn!

Going into the whys and wherefores of that drinking party would drive them all into deeper mire. . . . It would confirm Cora's suspicions. She would never believe that Evelyn and Moira had spent that night in a room together.

It was the irony of fate that Evelyn, bringing Joe here tonight, should have run over to her own home for a few minutes, and during that interlude, Joe's wife had appeared, incriminating scene!

How say: "Evelyn brought your husband here to my apartment. I snatched the sight of him!"

Thinking it over, some of her New England father's admonitions came to her mind. The proverb about birds of a feather flocking together, for instance! If one were straight at heart, why lend oneself to other people's crookedness, and so to being misjudged?

"Am I my sister's keeper?" Moira misquoted, with a wry smile.

She thought: "He knows perfectly that Mrs. Rules has instigated suit!"

She said, tartly: "Don't pretend that you don't know why? If she wins, it'll be to your advantage. You'll have plenty to blow to the four winds!"

Watching him sharply, she saw him flush.

"You mean—"

"—What you already know. She's bringing a case."

"Whew! Tough luck!"

"—that I knew either her or you, you mean. Oh, I'm wise! You're two of a kind. And what do I care? Chase her for her money. Egg her on to grab all she can. But I have your 1. O. U. on paper."

"Listen, I can't pay you anything now I—Moira—listen—I've put a lot of her money on the wrong horse—"

"You—would!" There was a pregnant pause.

Then Moira broke into peals of hysterical laughter. For this—for this—she had loaned Tarry hundreds of her much-needed money. Her mistaken missionary spirit—backing Evelyn—backing Tarry—

Now they probably both hated her for it!

"Stop it! There's nothing to laugh at! Can't you see I'm in a deuce of a jam?" His voice a low growl.

Himself! Himself! Always!

But old custom was strong. As usual, she found herself listening to Tarry's woes—the eternal hard-luck theme—

It came out gradually. He'd followed this sure tip, and that! He'd had, over and over, what he gracefully referred to as "a bum steer."

Confession, it seemed, relieved his worried soul.

"Had Tarry a soul?"

"How much of her money, Tarry, have you lost?"

"I guess—close to a hundred grand, Moira—"

"One hundred thousand dollars, Tarry?" Incredible!

No—not incredible! Quite feasible, gauging Tarry's bad judgment.

And it was she who had introduced him to Mrs. Rules!

"Maybe—maybe a bit more—"

More?

"She only has what her husband left her! You mean—it's nearly all gone? Oh, surely not?" Her voice beseeching.

"A big chunk, Moira!"

Then: "You ought to feel sorry for me. Any day—well—I may be kicked out of the firm. Tough luck on a chap!"

She thought: "What about Mrs. Rules?"

As though he read that thought, he said: "I've been very decent to her, visiting her, sitting with her for hours. You kick about her suit for damages, but I hope she wins it, Moira! Can't you see how—how puny your little job is, losing it and all, compared to what I have to gain if she wins the case?" It was the last straw.

Moira got her reference from Joe Deverney. Her threat to Evelyn won her that.

Also a job as operator in a beauty parlor attached to Turkish Baths away up on the west side of town.

After the fat women had been steamed, sizzled, kneaded, punched and rolled, after the last word in torture had been wreaked upon them, they came, exhausted, irritable and demanding, to Moira, to be stroked, petted and comforted.

It was neither a high-class nor a pleasant job. But needs must.

They were a loquacious set of women. All their married difficulties were poured into her ears.

Beauty! To hold their husbands, or other people's husbands, or sweethearts, or to win a husband, they must be made beautiful!

And usually, she'd so little to work with!

For a time, she felt she disliked all women. The combination of Turkish Bath and beauty-parlor brought out human nature in the raw. Physically and spiritually, its seamiest side!

But gradually, she began to be sorry for many of these women. Life was unfair to them. As competitive to women in the so-called home as in the world of shops and offices.

To many, marriage was a battleground. A sorry affair.

And yet, outside of marriage, life was cruelly hard upon a woman.

Beauty was the weapon most of them struggled for!

Beauty cost money. Increasingly, as the years rolled along. After fifty—and many of her customers were in the fifties—it was an uphill fight.

She worked on a commission basis. And for long hours.

The Baths and the adjoining beauty-parlor were located in the basement of a big building. Poorly ventilated as it was, the atmosphere was enervating. Gusts of hot air from the Steam or Russian rooms would make her dizzy. At the best, it was too warm.

She seldom saw or felt the sunlight. Her magnolia skin took on an added pallor, these days.

She brooded over her future. Where was she heading? Whence had flown her bright dreams of happiness?

Where were her friends? Kim Delatour . . . Tarry . . . Rodney Stone . . . Randall? . . .

Tarry and Kim were broken reeds. Rodney was out of the picture, so far as she was concerned. Her mind turned to Randall, often, these trying days. Why not get in touch with Randall?

Pride stopped her.

Theater Attractions

"We Are Not Alone," successful novel by James Hilton, has been adapted by the author for the screen, with Paul Muni and Jane Bryan in the leading roles. The picture shows at the State tonight and Thursday.

Besides the sterling characterization of Muni, the picture has much to recommend it. Sensitive direction has brought out the character analysis which made so much of the book, expert playing has turned the novel's characters into flesh-and-blood people whose difficulties are believable and engrossing.

Jane Bryan deserts her former ingenue role to portray the pathetic little Viennese dancer, Leni, a role requiring the ability, technique and perception of an expert. Miss Bryan does the outstanding performance of the picture, since Muni's work is never below the standard expected of as brilliant a performer, Flora Robson. English actress, is excellent as Muni's unsympathetic wife, Raymond Severn has the role of the young son, whose fear of his mother's coldness leads to her death.

The picture was directed by Edmund Goulding, maker of two 1939 hits, "The Old Maid" and "Dark Victory." Muni's "Juarez" of last year has been named one of the ten best of the year. Jane Bryan's dramatic role was in "The Old Maid."

member of the United States Supreme Court.

The delegates will be required to sign a pledge reading, "I am in accord with and will support the New Deal", Limbach said, thus virtually assuring Ohio backing for any presidential successor designated by Mr. Roosevelt.

Control of the delegation will be kept by Donahy until the organization is ready to cast its unit vote, Limbach added, however, neither Ohio law nor custom require delegates to support on the convention floor the candidate to whom they are pledged.

Limbach plans to head as chairman the 16 delegates-at-large, each with a half vote, and 44 district delegates, who will have a full vote each. They will be elected in the May 14 primary.

Chief Democrat omitted from a tentative list of at-large delegates was former Gov. Martin L. Davey. Frequently at odds with the Roose-vel administration during his 1935-38 term, Davey, it was understood, failed to get the approval of Senator Donahy.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sick and the world looks lunk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up". Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

STANDARD OIL KNOWS LANDIS

Baseball Commissioner Slipped Them Fine 35 Years Ago

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Spry, old Kenesaw Mountain Landis still is making spectacular rulings, just as he did 35 years ago when he sat on the federal bench.
Back in 1907 he slapped a breath-taking $29,240,000 fine on the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and this week he shook the baseball world with a ruling that cost Detroit's American League club an estimated half million dollars.
The 71-year-old baseball commissioner made himself the ball player's friend more than ever when he cut loose 91 players owned by Detroit and affiliated minor league clubs Sunday.
He warned club owners and executives that infractions of the rules governing player transactions in the future would lead to heavy fines and banishment from the game of officials responsible.

Landis explained in a supplementary statement yesterday that illegal practices in operations of farms hurt the players.
"The purpose and effect of the farm system," he asserted, "is to 'cold storage' ball players until the major club controlling them sees fit to use them or sell their contracts."
"Instead of being free to advance as rapidly as their ability merits, and to advance to and through any and every club in baseball, players are unjustly restricted to 'grooved' advancement through the one system which controls them and solely as that system may conceive to be in its interests."

Landis said the only reason the penalty wasn't more severe in Detroit's case was that club owners and officials had not been given sufficient warning of the seriousness of the evils.

QUAKERS BOAST NO OUTSTANDING SCORING THREAT

Point-Making Honors for Seven Games Fairly Well Divided

Typical in one way of other teams developed by Coach Herbert H. Brown in recent years, the present Salem High school basketball squad winner in three of its seven games, has produced no outstanding scoring star.

Scoring honors for the Quakers' seven games thus far in the 1939-40 season are fairly well divided.

Mike Thomas, who has played in all seven games, but has started only five of them, leads the pack with 45 points. Close behind is Guard Glenn (Dinty) McLaughlin with 40 points and Center Les Knepp with 38 points.

Thomas has counted 18 field goals and nine free throws. McLaughlin and Knepp have each scored 13 field goals, but McLaughlin has made two more foul shots than Knepp.

Other scorers who have appeared in all seven games have figured consistently in the scoring. Bob Shue, has counted 25 points, Jimmy Kleon, 20, and Bob Umberger, 17.

Coach Brown has used 12 players in the seven games, and all but two of them have broken into the scoring. In addition to the six players previously named, others, with points to their credit are: Dick Jaeger, 6; Bob Ritchie, 5; Phil Cozad, 2, and Johnny Vollo, 1. Deuber Miller and Jim Armet have appeared in the varsity lineup but failed to score.

The Quakers have outscored their seven opponents 199 points to 174. The Salem team has made 71 field goals and 57 free throws, while its opponents have made 66 field goals and 42 free throws.

While they have outscored their opponents from the free throw line, the Quakers' record in foul shooting is less than 500 per cent. They have made only 57 of their 119 free throws for a percentage of 47.

Among six players who have seen action in every game, Kleon, Shue and Umberger have the best foul shooting records. Kleon has made four of seven free throws, Shue five out of nine and Umberger seven out of 13.

McLaughlin and Knepp have shot more than half of the team's free throws between them, but both are below 500 per cent in foul shooting. Knepp has the poorest record, having made only 12 of 32 foul shots. McLaughlin is hitting near 500 per cent with a record of 14 conversions in 29 shots from the foul stripe.

Thomas, who leads the team in scoring, ranks below McLaughlin in foul shooting. His record shows only nine successful shots in 19 attempts.

The Quakers will reach the halfway mark in their 1939-40 campaign Friday night when they face East Palestine at Palestine in one of the two games they will play this week. They will return to action Saturday night, meeting Youngstown South here.

Scoring and foul shooting records of all players who have seen action in varsity games this season follow:

BOWLING RESULTS

The Salem News, defending champion and current second-place team in the National League, advanced a notch nearer the top position at the Masonic temple alleys last night by winning two out of three games with the leading Gem Shoe Shine.

The News' victories sliced the Gem lead from five to four games. Bill Finley paced the News, hitting 602 on games of 191, 201 and 210.

W. L. Strain Co. continued to hold third place by taking two games from Kelly's Service, while in other National league matches the Masons won three heats with the Moose and Grate Recreation was awarded three wins over Art the Jeweler on a forfeit.

Local No. 42, N. B. O. P., moved three games nearer first place in the City Ducky league at the Grate Recreation lanes by sweeping its match with Martin Tires after the leading Blue Ribbon paints had forfeited to Nobil Shoes. Fratilla's Cafe won three games from DeRienzo's Spaghetti Shoppe in another duckpin match.

First and second place teams in the Owl league suffered reverses as the Trades Class won three games from the leading Sanitary Enamelers and Martin Tires took three games from the second-place DuPont Paints.

Grate Motors posted two wins over the Sanitary Old Timers in a third Owl league contest.

Win First Test

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Dartmouth, after a decisive victory over Harvard in its first test of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league season, meets a second and a somewhat more dangerous opponent tonight.

The Indians, defending league champions, encounter the Pennsylvania quintet which is tied for third in the league standing with Harvard. In tonight's other league contest, Columbia and Cornell meet at Ithaca.

1927 Yankees Tops

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 17.—The 1927 New York Yankees, in the opinion of Umpire George Piggar who was one of them, were a better all around team than the 1939 world champions.

Furthermore, he said today he believed only two of the 1939 team could have displaced any of the 1927 regulars. They are Joe DiMaggio and Bill Dickey. Piggar's hurling career ended in 1931 when he broke the elbow of his pitching arm.

Grove Signs

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—One Red Sox pitting worry has been settled with Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove's contract signed and delivered.

Grove visited the Fenway park offices yesterday and officials announced a short time later that the famous lefthanded ace had signed. Terms were not disclosed.

Allen Uninjured

INVERNESS, Fla., Jan. 17.—Pitcher Johnny Allen of the Cleveland Indians escaped injury in an automobile collision last night, but his car was wrecked.

OKLAHOMA USES NEW STYLE OF CAGE OFFENSE

Aggies Have Defeated 14 Teams; Offensive Attack Revolves

STILLWATER, Okla., Jan. 17.—Windmills, carwheels and merry-go-rounds wear out the Oklahoma Aggies, who run their basketball foes dizzy with a methodical revolving offense, hope to whirl on forever.

Fourteen teams have faced these cowboy cage artists this season. Kansas solved their whirling antics in the opener, but since then 13 topnotch clubs have fallen before their surefire attack. Victory over Creighton gave them sole leadership in the Missouri Valley conference.

Among their victims were such teams as LaSalle of Philadelphia, Loyola of Chicago, City College of New York, Duke, Arkansas, Texas Tech and Oklahoma, co-champion of the Big Six.

Good at Home

No; since 1936 have the Aggies been whipped on their own floor. Their string of home victories stands at 39.

Their offensive maneuvers actually assume a revolving motion. They whip the ball around, moving in a circle until the defense is ripe for cracking. Then at a signal they throw on a set of blocks that would stymie a regiment, shaking a scorer loose for a layup.

They don't take many shots, but they make them count. Their defense is so tight that scoring against them is like trying to get an elephant through a revolving door—the openings close too fast.

When they bump into a defense as stout as their own they depend on the tips of Vern Schweitzer's, 6-foot 6-inch center, or feed the ball to Harvey Cude, a dead shot at 30 feet.

Circusmaster of the Cowboy court rings is Henry Payne Iba, 35-year-old Missouri born strategist.
